Mars Stationary Retrograde in 10th House

Jousting for position can be the order of the day during this period, and you may find the competition gets stiff until everybody gets their territory. The trick is to avoid permanent conflicts that could haunt you later. Life can be a tournament, but it shouldn't be a war. So be ready to take as well as you give and don't stubbornly grasp at what's not worth fighting for. You'll more likely find a position by repositioning than by siege or going down with the ship. Winning is about survival, not conquest -- you needn't be the last or only one left standing at the end of the day. It's all about if you fell down, did you get up?

Throwing your energies into various forms of self-promotion may have yielded not much forward motion lately, but a turnaround is now becoming available if you corral your energies and choose a single plan of operations. Single-minded career efforts will find reward and you will be judged by your level of commitment to your own exertions. Believe in yourself and follow word with deeds -- it's the proof of the pudding where others are concerned. Where you make an impression with manifested self-confidence, there you will find fast friends and lasting connections.

Playful creativity can be a hallmark of the next three weeks, but only if you are willing to let it take its course wherever it leads. Don't expect to follow a straight track but go where things lead you until you start to establish a pattern. Only then can you get back to the main highway after an enlightening detour onto the scenic route. Don't be surprised if this muddies previously held opinions toward the end, as the new alternatives you will be finding will more than make up for any inconveniences or confusions experienced along the way.

A period of some delays, detours, and slowdowns has turned the corner and with a little more fine-tuning life operations will be not only back to normal but improved. Issues having to do with direction and creative focus begin to resolve themselves and turn out to have been only temporary delays, not fundamental problems. Once you have buttoned down the last of the recently arisen distractions, you can put your mind fully on the game and get back to being the you you always thought you were, only better. The exercise provided by internal troubleshooting and introspection brings you back stronger than ever.

The everyday care of the smaller necessities in life are highlighted during this period. First, you may feel you are not getting your daily due and proper attention -- but then you may discover it is because you haven't really asked for what you truly want. Learning new and more satisfying ways to address your personal habits and those of others will refresh once you take a closer look. This can mean taking better care of yourself, eating what truly satisfies, and turning the necessities of the daily grind into the opportunities of ever-evolving accomplishment. Life is one thing at a time, each well done.

Knowing what you want to get out of your daily routine is essential to making it work for you and not you work for it. That may have been something of an issue of late, but clearing things up is the order of the day now, so go ahead and prioritize. Setting clear goals makes the details of achieving them that much easier, so the more specific you can be, the better. By clearing your decks, you open up your path, so don't be afraid to dispense with time-wasters and overstated tasks. By sticking to just what is necessary, you lighten your own responsibilities and enable partnering to expand your horizons.

Sometimes painting life with a broad brush can cause you to miss messy details that then slow you down. The next three weeks are a great time to pause and make sure the rug rats and ankle biters are not in a position to sidetrack your whole operation because you ignored them. It's time to give the small things their due so they can serve your larger purpose. By doing so, you may discover a better version of your own vision as well. Don't hurry, you've got time, and you may find that in the end tapping resources you had ignored will trigger a rising tide that floats all boats, not just your own.

The last few weeks' complexities and contradictions begin to clear up and you've turned a corner on finding out what you can get elsewhere and what you can provide yourself. If you need to borrow, it will be in the cards, but you may equally find that a little inventory of your past resources will reveal you've actually got all you need if you try out a new way to tap it. Brilliant ideas that seemed elusive are headed back into the pipeline but will still need a little sorting out before you can bring them to fruition. Putting previous obstacles behind you will give you the chance.

For the next three weeks you may feel like you're waiting for things to come together, but you don't know exactly what they are. Kind of like watching a row of seeds you've planted - you hope something is happening, but it's hard to tell. Events for you are, in fact, restructuring themselves behind the scenes, and you may be in for some surprises when all is resolved. Your best course is to make as few assumptions as possible and don't bet on the same old horses. Be open to your own intuitive hunches and be ready to jump aboard a new bandwagon when it suddenly materializes. It may come from closer than you think and from those you might have taken for granted.

Mercury Conjunct Neptune (Retrograde)

Mercury backing off your Neptune may mean putting your fantasies on hold until you've more thoroughly figured them out. Groping blindly in the mist will not serve you well -- better to be still so you can better hear what may be moving about. If fond hopes disappoint, it is perhaps because you have not framed them in a fashion where they can become reality. One wish leads to another only if you don't cling to the first one -- be ready to reload your camera and take another shot. When the pictures are developed down the road, you'll see clearly what you had only imagined was there.

Mercury Conjunct Jupiter (Retrograde)

Mercury making a pullback on your Jupiter should put a focus on reorganizing your go-

-ahead game plan and see if your horsepower plant could use a tune-up before you put in more gas. If you're not running on all cylinders, now is the time to find out and be sure everything is in gear before putting the pedal to the metal. That means rooting out half-baked (though well-meant) goals and ambitions and remixing a formula that burns clean and hot. Pull back from overextension and put all you've got into a revised plan -- the one you're revising now.

If loss of communications has left you clueless, you can start collecting more reliable evidence again. When exterior sources fail to provide the information you need, you may have to rely on your inner resources and come to your own conclusions without external input. However, if you can avoid tying yourself down, that would be a better choice, as things may be going on without your knowledge that will surface soon and give you a better handle on your operations. When the mist clears, you'll have the opportunity to really make yourself seen and heard.

Mercury Conjunct Jupiter

As Mercury turns around after three backwards weeks, it's right on your Jupiter, which should put you into the forefront of what's happening next. Claim the vanguard, and others will thank you for rescuing them from a sea of hesitation and indecision. It's becoming time to finally choose, and you can be the choice -- just step forward boldly with your beliefs and the rest will be history. Even if it's old, paint it like it's new, dress it like the future, and that's what it will be. You needn't have all the details, just the confidence in your direction -- take care of the rest once you're under way.

Mercury Conjunct Neptune

Mercury swinging around on your Neptune may not completely get you out from recent weeks' fog, but it will allow you to begin to get your bearings. Trust your instincts, not your eyesight, and feel free to feel your way. Spend more time living your life like poetry instead of prose, putting your emotions into words and your spiritual aspirations into print. You don't have to show it to anybody, just yourself -- you have to hitch yourself to a dream for it to come true, so start hitching. When you can put your finger on what it is you want, then it is more likely to fall within your grasp.
